

FIGHTS WITH BURGLAR WHEN HE AWAKENS HER; HE'S CAUGHT IN CHASE

Intruder Breaks Away From
Mrs. McGinley, but Runs
Into Policeman's Arms.

Mrs. Catherine McGinley, twenty-four years old, was asleep beside her five-month-old daughter, Rita, in a bedroom of their home at No. 359 Fourth street, Brooklyn, at 2 o'clock this morning when the baby began to cry. Mrs. McGinley got up to comfort it and was composing herself for sleep when she heard a scratching at the parlor window. Lying still, she listened until she heard soft footsteps on the carpet. Then she got up and ran into the room.

Just as she reached the door of her bedroom a man seized her. She screamed and tried to hold him, but he broke away from her, picked up his shoes, which he had left beneath the window, and jumped to the sidewalk.

In another room were Mrs. McGinley's husband, Martin, a post-office clerk, and his father, John McGinley, a retired contractor, who was visiting his son, from Highbridge, N. J. Aroused by Mrs. McGinley's screams, both men ran into the front room. The intruder was disappearing through the window.

McGinley, wearing only his pajamas, dashed to the street after him. The chase extended down Fourth street to Sixth avenue and then turned into Third street, where the fleeing man ran into the arms of Policeman Kraft of the Bergen street station.

At the station he said he was Thomas Heagan, seventeen years old, of No. 155 Nevins street. He admitted having been paroled on June 20 from Elmira Reformatory, where he was sent, a year ago, for burglary.

Money Gone, He Kills Himself.
CAMDEN, N. J., July 9.—Carroll Baile, fifty, living at Bristol, killed himself late yesterday in the home of his brother, Samuel Baile, at No. 310 Bergen street, Gloucester City, by shooting himself in the head with a shot gun. Baile was formerly a prosperous iron pipe manufacturer of Bristol. He sold his establishment three years ago and bought a farm in Bristol, which he sold a year ago, and arrived practically penniless at the home of his brother.

Dancer at the Palace Believes In Women as Stage Producers

ADELAIDE

"Stage producing is my real profession," says Adelaide, who is dancing at the Palace Theatre. "Dancing, of course, is my present mainstay, but the thing that I take seriously, the thing that my ambition is in and that I hope to do some day on a big and artistic scale, is to produce plays and musical comedies. You know I think that producing opens up a big field for women just because women see things so much in detail. Men get the big effects, but they miss the exquisite little delicate shades that a woman sees intuitively, and it is on the finenesses that the artistry of a performance so often hangs. It is because Belasco is largely feminine in his nature that he makes the little subtle points in his productions, and his stage settings have very often saved a bad play.

"Another reason why I think that women will some day make great stage producers, both for vaudeville and the legitimate, is because women are mad for novelty. Look at the way they dress! The greatest recommendation you can make to a man of his hat is to say that every man has got one exactly like it, but every woman wants a hat as unlike every other woman's as she can get. Our managers, being men, follow each other like sheep. If one produces a sex play, all produce sex plays. If one produces a crime play, all run to crime plays, and so it goes. But a woman manager will at least strike out and try for something different.

"Of course it sounds conceded for me to say so, but I am sure that if I had the money and could go to Europe and pick and choose our stage producers I would find something different. I would see some little thing that they have missed that I would take and develop into something big."

MOVIES, NOT GRAND OPERA.

Hammerstein Will Rename House the "Great East Side."

Oscar Hammerstein's new Lexington Avenue Opera House, in which he intended to present grand opera until prevented from doing so by the Metropolitan Opera Company because of its agreement with them to withdraw from the operatic field, is to become a home of the movies, according to plans announced to-day. The new house will be opened Aug. 8 and will be known as the Great East Side Opera House. The entertainment will be interspersed with operatic music played by a large orchestra and sung by artists. To make this part of the programme more effective the settings used by Mr. Hammerstein in his London Opera House will be employed as a background. A great organ is being installed.

TEN DOLLARS AWAITING I. T. O. A. TAXI PASSENGER

Honest Driver Turns In a $20 Bill
Given in Mistake by A Fare.

Ten dollars awaits the man who hired an I. T. O. A. taxicab at Seventy-ninth street and Fifth avenue late yesterday afternoon. J. W. Garvey, driver of the taxicab, reported to Police Headquarters that a man had given him what he thought was a ten-dollar bill for a six-dollar ride. The driver gave him $4 change.

"The bill was rolled up," said Garvey, "and looked like a ten-dollar bill. But when I returned to the garage I saw that it was a twenty-dollar bill. I do not know who the man was that rode in my cab. I was called from the public stand at Eighty-first street by a policeman to take some passengers. A lady and gentleman got in and took a drive, the fare amounting to 46¢.

The man may have his $10 by calling at the I. T. O. A. garage.

NOTES OF THE THEATRES.

Ann Murdock will continue under the management of H. H. Frazee for the next three years. Miss Murdock, who is now the leading woman in "A Pair of Sixes," ran away from a boarding school to join a stock company in Brooklyn. She attracted the attention of the late Henry B. Harris, who engaged her for an ingenue role with Robert Edeson in "The Offenders," which ran only two weeks. Then she was engaged by Henry W. Savage for the part of the bride in "The House of the Dead."

in Daily estate, improved his opportunity to advance for the forthcoming London production of "The Dummy." He will send out the first road company of the Offenders-Ford comedy with George Mack, in the part of the boy detective and Frank Campau in the role of the crook.

Rehearsal of "The High Cost of Living," which A. H. Woods will present at the Republic Theatre in the fall, will begin Monday. Low Fields, Alice Hegeman, Vivian Martin, Harry Bernard and Julia Bels will be included in the cast.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS ago almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poison is: 'A medicine which relieves pain, causes convulsions and death.' Two kinds and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrup," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without your or your physician's knowledge of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
